DETAILED ACTION

Response to Request for Continued Examination

The examiner is in receipt of applicant's response to office action mailed 10/27/2006, which was received 2/26/2007. Acknowledgement is made to the amendment of claim 24, the cancellation of claims 1-23,26,29-32,35-38, and the addition of claims 39 and 40, leaving claims 24,25,27,28,33, 34 ,39 and 40 as open to prosecution. The examiner has considered applicant's amendment and arguments but does not find them persuasive, therefore the previous office action modified as necessitated by amendment follows:

Examiner's Note

Examiner has cited particular columns and line numbers or figures in the references as applied to the claims below for the convenience of the applicant. Although the specified citations are representative of the teachings in the art and are applied to the specific limitations within the individual claim, other passages and figures may apply as well. It is respectfully requested from the applicant, in preparing the responses, to fully consider the references in entirety as potentially teaching all or part of the claimed invention, as well as the context of the passage as taught by the prior art or disclosed by the examiner.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 24,25,33 and 34 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Vallabh (US 7,054,832) in view of Khan (US 6,263,316).

In regards to claims 24,25,33 and 34, Vallabh teaches all the features of the instant claims except as follows. Vallabh discloses storing purchased products in a remote site for later pick-up (Fig 1) automatically assigning a pickup location (col 11, lines 50-67), then further direct the product be delivered to the assigned pickup point (col 10, lines 50-65) in a movable arraignment (FIG 12, item 320). Vallabh further teaches dynamically assigning by determining which stations are available (col 11, lines 50-67, but does not specifically mention that the pickup station is automatically released when the ordered purchase is obtained. Khan teaches automatically indicating when a transaction is completed and a vehicle has left a pickup area (col 7 and 8). It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to include in Vallabh automatically indicating that the vehicle has left the pickup station, because this would enable a quick transfer of goods (col 9, lines 25-30).

In regards to claim 39, the combination of Vallabh and Khan teach wherein the control system is configured for automatically releasing the purchase pick-up point assigned to the customer in response to payment by the customer (Khan, fig 8, lines 1-

Claims 27 and 28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Vallabh in view of Khan and further in view of Joseph (5,635,906).

In regards to claims 27 and 28, Vallabh teaches picking up orders that are assembled by a third party, but does not specifically mention that the old and well known process of inspecting the package to assure that all the items have been correctly packaged for pick-up is present. Joseph teaches using a weight system to assure that all the products have been provided to the customer. It would have been obvious to include in Vallabh the use of the weight system as taught by Joseph, because this is a quick and efficient method to assure that all the ordered products have been included in the package for pick-up, thus quickly moving the customer from the lane so that another customer can use it for pick-up.

In regards to claim 40, the combination of Vallabh, Khan and Joseph teach identifying availability of a pick-up station (see Vallabh in view of Khan supra) and completing inspection to indicate the conclusion of a transaction and releasing the purchased product (Joseph, col 2, line 50 – col 3, line 4). Since the inspection assures prior to release pickup station the combination meets the feature as stated in the instant claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 24,25,27,28,33 and 34 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection necessitated by amendment.

Applicant argues that Vallabh does not teach automatically assigning a pickup point. The examiner disagrees and directs the applicant's attention to col 12, lines 5-20, where it is clear that the system automatically relays information to the customer after the customer has been identified.
